JUNIOR SMOKER.

Dr. Luther Talks to Men About Hobbies.

Last night at the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity house, the juniors held their first class smoker. President Luther addressed the class, and the rest of the evening was given over to an informal social hour.

H. J. Roberts, acting as chairman for the evening, called the assembled guests to order and called upon Dr. Luther for a speech. Dr. Luther protested his utter lack of preparation of anything to say, and started in with a talk in which he gave the students,—as he does every time he addresses them,—some good, sound advice, well put, and intermingled with wit. In part, he said:

"I am glad to see you all gathered together tonight, and especially as it is the junior class. You remember the song, 'In junior year we take our ease etc.' I am sure it appeals to every one of you."

Then he announced the text of the idea he wished to impart to the class, "How to be happy after graduation," or "hobbies."

"There is coming a time when life is going to change," he said, "What you have had to make life happy for you is going to stop, in a way.—The satisfaction one gets out of life lies in having something else to do." He then described the led-horse which a general in the civil war took with him on the marches, one which he rode on gala occasions. "That is what I mean by a hobby," he explained, "an occupation,—a led-horse,—apart from the profession which a man follows, which he may ride, usually something ridiculously unlike that profession." Explaining how wonderful a relief from the monotonous grind of daily routine a hobby was, Dr. Luther expressed the hope that the present library might in some near day be made into a college union, where the students might get their minds completely off college routine and be brought together in pleasant recreation. The expense, he said, would not be great,—the problem was the administration of the rooms,—and that was up to the students.

The rest of the evening was spent in singing Trinity and 1914 minstrel songs, and other music, seasoned with refreshments and "smokes" which the hosts of the evening served. After several photographs had been taken by Bassford, the class photographer, the smoker was closed with the singing of "'Neath the Elms."

Lacrosse Continues.

Manager Boehm has arranged that the lacrosse team continue to practice and says that it will play Harvard in Cambridge on April 5th as previously arranged, but under the name of the Hartford Lacrosse Club. The State Armory has been secured for practice and hereafter the men will continue their work there. The lacrosse men hope that, besides the game with Harvard, games may be arranged with Brooklyn high schools also.

SEVEN-TWENTY-EIGHT.

Play Chosen for Presentation by Freshman Class.

The members of the class of 1916 will present Augustin Daly's Seven-Twenty-Eight or Casting the Boomerang, at Parsons' Theatre on the evening of Friday, April 18. The play chosen was a John Drew success many years ago, and has a favorable record of amateur presentations. It is in four acts and requires eleven characters, seven of them men and four women. Daly took the play from the German of Von Schönthan.

Mr. Roland H. Batchelder of this city has been engaged to coach the men. Mr. Batchelder has done work of the sort at several schools, and at Hotchkiss the play chosen by the freshmen was successfully given under his direction. He will rehearse the men once or twice a week until the time of the presentation when he will be with the men daily. Cole and Craik, who are in charge of the freshman end of the work, are now looking for someone in college, either professor or undergraduate, who can oversee the rehearsals in the absence of the head instructor. Such a person is needed, since from the beginning there will be daily rehearsals.

There has as yet been no meeting of the class of 1916 to consider the matter, but President Cole has obtained by canvassing among the men, the names of thirty-four who wish to try for parts. The class will meet in the history room at 12.45 tomorrow to take up the details and it is likely that a good addition to the list of volunteers will be made.

No effort at selecting men for the parts will be made until after the mid-year examinations. Very shortly after these are ended, however, the try-outs will be held and those chosen for places in the cast, will begin work at once.

Hartford Alumni Meeting.

There will be a business meeting of the Hartford Alumni Association at the University Club on Lewis Street, Friday evening, January 24th. Officers for the coming year will be elected, and plans will be made for a banquet later in the year. Following the meeting there will be light refreshments.

A PANAMA WALKING TRIP.

Judge Thayer to Describe One to Science Club.

At a meeting of the science club to be held in the geology room in Boardman Hall Friday afternoon, Judge George B. Thayer, of West Hartford, will relate the experiences attendant upon his walking trip across the Isthmus of Panama. Judge Thayer is an entertaining speaker, and with such a unique subject to handle, should furnish a delightful and instructive talk, and the club is most fortunate in having procured him.

In order that others who may be interested may have an opportunity to hear the lecture, the club extends an invitation to all professors and students to be present at the meeting, which is set for four o'clock, immediately after the last recitation.

CALL FOR TRACK MEN.

Relay Race with Wesleyan at Armory on February 21.

Captain Wessels inaugurated training for the 1913 track season yesterday noon with a meeting of all the candidates in 20 Jarvis Hall, which brought out about thirty men. His purpose in calling them together at this time was, as he stated, to get them into condition early. He told the candidates that he wanted them to cut out cigarettes, late hours, etc., in order to be in the best of trim when the track season finally comes. The state armory will be open for the men to train in until the Armory Meet on February 21 and the captain wishes to have a good squad of men out and at work on every day on which other more important duties do not prevent.

A varsity relay race against Wesleyan has been arranged to take place at the February meet and the quarter milers who hope to make places on the team will receive particular attention at the coming practices. The prospects for a good showing in the event are excellent. Hall and Furnivall are quarter milers who established a fine reputation for themselves in the meets last spring, and they will undoubtedly earn places. Crehore, though more of a miler, is fast and promising at the shorter distance. Sage, '14, is also very speedy, and, with training, will be hard to beat. Of the freshmen, Spencer and Lyon showed up well in last fall's underclass meet, while Howell, '13, is also good material.

In addition to the relay men there will probably be several other entries from college in the many events on the program.

Change in Examination Schedule.

There has been a slight revision of the examination schedule as printed in the last issue. Drawing 1 has been changed from January 31 to the morning of February 6, and Biology 3, which was to have been held on February 3, has been transferred into the list of those unprovided-for in the schedule. The Public Speaking examination will be held on the morning of Friday, Jan. 31.

Arbitration Essay Contest.

Chester DeWitt Pugsley, Harvard, '09, through the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, offers a prize of $100 to the American or Canadian male college undergraduate who shall write the best essay on "International Arbitration." The judges of the contest are the Hon. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor of New York University, Rollo Odgen, editor of the New York Evening Post, and Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, of the United States Army, retired. All essays must be sent to the secretary of the conference, Mr. H. C. Phillips of Mohonk Lake, N. Y., on or before March 15.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL.

Seniors to Play Sophomores, and Juniors to Meet Freshmen.

The interclass basketball games scheduled for last Friday are to be played in the gymnasium, Wednesday afternoon, January 22, 1913 playing 1915, and 1914 meeting 1916. The games scheduled for Wednesday will be played after the mid-year examinations.

Improvement in form on the part of all four teams is to be expected as all have been practicing steadily. The teams will probably line up as follows:

1913		1915
F. J. Brainard	RF	H. L. Brainerd
E. L. Ward	LF	Carpenter, Shelley
J. B. Moore		C Vizner, N. R. Sage
L'Heureux	RG	Smith
Hathaway	LG	McCue, Withington
1914		1916
Dunn, Fort	RF	Tiger, Aldrich
Moses	LF	Lyon, Morris
Lawlor, H.A. Sage	C	Morris, Lambert
J. A. Moore	RG	Castator
Dexter	LG	Lambert, Woolley

The revised schedule follows:

Jan. 22—1913 vs. 1915; 1914 vs. 1916
Feb. 12—1913 vs. 1916; 1914 vs. 1915
Feb. 14—1913 vs. 1914; 1915 vs. 1916
Feb. 19—1913 vs. 1915; 1914 vs. 1916
Feb. 21—1913 vs. 1916; 1914 vs. 1915

SENIORS TO HOLD SMOKERS.

Committee Appointed to Arrange Program.

A meeting of the class of 1913 yesterday took up the advisability of giving a series of class smokers at the various fraternity houses, such as the juniors have started. A committee composed of R. P. Withington, E. L. Ward, J. J. Whitehead, S. H. Evison, W. E. Barber, W. A. Hathaway, W. S. Marsden and E. T. Smith was appointed by the chair to consider the matter and report a program at the next meeting of the class. It was suggested that the smokers be held at Heublein's, but the sentiment of the class was strongly against the idea.

The Hon. A. J. L'Heureux, president of the class, read a letter from J. A. Wales, '01, chairman of the employment committee of the New York Alumni Association inviting correspondence from any members in the class who desired work in New York City or State, and requesting those who did desire it, to give him information as to the kind of work they preferred to enter, their previous experience, and their scholastic record.

John B. Moore, chairman of the recent Senior Assembly committee, made his financial report to the class.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

Persist.

The members of the class of 1916, and particularly those who have fathered the plans for presenting a play at Parsons' Theatre, deserve a great deal of commendation for the spirit they have shown. Interest among them seems to be almost unanimous and with this enthusiastic backing, with that of the rest of the college, the work is sure to be brought to a successful completion. It would be well for those who expect to try for places in the cast, to bear in mind that, once selected, they have a long and not always pleasant grind ahead of them. The other and better side of the picture is the fact that the results are well worth the trouble to the worker, and that there are few better ways of getting the college and its doings before the public eye in a manner which will produce a wholly favorable impression. May it be that hope and persistence, as well as talent, are qualities which underlie the characters of the members of the class of 1916!

LENT APPROACHES.

President Preaches on Riches, Cares and Pleasures.

A sermon very appropriate to the coming of the Lenten season was delivered by Dr. Luther in chapel Sunday morning. Luke 8: 14, "And that which fell among thorns are they which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches, and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection," formed the text of the sermon, which was briefly as follows:

"That which fell among thorns are they, who, having heard the word, go forth with good intentions, but, choked with the cares and riches and pleasures of this life, never accomplish much. There is nothing essentially bad about cares, riches, and pleasure, but it is bad to be choked by them. It is even quite necessary to have a care, to take care, be careful, to care for the serious, the noble, and the brave things of life. But while we are responsible for our endeavors and intentions, we are not finally responsible for results in many cases, and it is not our business to worry about things for which we are not responsible. Let us remember, when results do not please us, that 'it is God that giveth the increase'.

"There is also much choking by pleasures and riches. We are all fond of pleasure, and 'riches' can not apply to us, we say, as we are not rich. However, the text doesn't say choked by our own riches, and our good intentions may be choked by the riches of others and pleasures which the rich offer to draw us from our duties and endeavors."

"As the Christmas and Epiphany seasons draw to a close, we note the change in the color of the altar cloths and decorations. There is symbolism in the color decorations of the Church in the various seasons—green stands for efficiency in Christian lives, white for purity and rejoicing, red for self-sacrifice and struggle, and the violet which we now see on the altar suggests the building up of a new spiritual life. With Lent comes the time for self-examination, and the giving up of innocent but trivial things. Let us find in the season a stimulation for a new growth and development."

Following the sermon, Whitehead, '13, sang "God, have mercy," from Mendelssohn's oratorio, "St. Paul."

Hockey.

On account of inclement weather conditions the game with Williams scheduled for last Saturday was postponed.

Next Saturday, if the ice permits, the team will journey to Springfield, where it will play the Y. M. C. A. College.

President Lectures.

Dr. Luther lectured before a large audience in Derby last Friday night on the subject of "Astronomy." The lecture was held under the auspices of the Derby Y. M. C. A.

Ivy Pictures.

Owing to the cloudy weather, no group pictures were taken for the 1914 Ivy last Saturday. These pictures will be taken some time during the present week, weather conditions permitting.

To Professional Men:
 No class of men need life insurance more than do professional men. As a rule, the income of a professional man is largely, if not wholly, dependent on his brain, and when the activity of the mind ceases, his income ceases, or is at once greatly reduced.
 The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company offers to the professional man who desires to assure his wife and children for life, or for a specified term of years, the continuance of a substantial part, at least, of the income to which they were accustomed during his lifetime, a contract perfectly suited to these needs.

Library Notes.
 To those who cannot or will not take the trouble to read Chaucer in the original, the version of his poetical works, made into modern English by Tatlock and MacKaye, published by MacMillan, and purchased by the library shortly before Christmas, offers a very satisfactory key to the treasure house of the most modern medievalists. Critics by the score have discussed his work and it would be useless to add to their observations. So far as is possible, it would seem that the editors have preserved the real Chaucer, even beneath his greatly changed exterior, and, as they say, they wish the reader to feel that he is reading Chaucer and nothing else. He who has read the original sufficiently to progress through it without much difficulty, would of course, never be satisfied with this edition, for a great majority of those qualities which give charm to the stories and poems, much of their naivete, much of their simplicity, and, except in the metrical transpositions, all of their rythm, are lost. It is highly serviceable, however, as an introducer to Chaucer's delights or as a short cut for the lazy man. Warwick Goble has scattered through the text several delicately written illustrations.

A volume which may be of interest, though published a year ago and by no means a new accession, is William Winter's Shakespeare on the Stage. In it this keen and searching old critic has described the manner in which actors have presented the various great parts. The account of the early acting is authoritative and fascinating, but added glamour is thrown over the descriptions of the work in the second half of the last century, through the author's broad personal acquaintance with Shakespearean actors. He has prefaced the work with a chapter prefaced by the catch phrase "Shakespeare spells ruin" and pretty thoroughly convinces his readers that Shakespeare for the most part spells the exact opposite of this undesirable state.

A MEDICAL COLLEGE to which Philadelphians Point with Pride.

The city of Philadelphia has long been famous for its medical colleges, and high among these institutions is the Medico-Chirurgical College. This College has had a wonderful growth, "probably without a parallel in the history of medical schools." Today it offers unusual opportunities for students to prepare themselves in Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy and Chemistry.

The college is most advantageously located. It is centrally situated and near a large manufacturing district, where the hospital cases are extensive and varied in character, and afford unsurpassed clinical facilities. The clinical amphitheatre is the largest and finest in the world. The hospital is well equipped and modern in every respect. There are thirteen laboratories so arranged that abundant individual work is assured each student.

In each of the departments degrees are granted at the end of carefully graded courses. Every student has the advantage of practical instruction, free quizzes, limited ward classes, modern seminar methods and clinical conferences.

The faculty consists of a staff of instructors of pronounced ability and reputation for the most modern methods.

The dean of each department will furnish information to anyone desiring it.
